

PROVIDER TYPES

Fee-for-Service

Fee-for-service (FFS) providers are those that receive payment based on individual professional services rendered. Services are coded and billed for reimbursement.

Under the FFS payment model, a health care provider provisions a service, documents necessary information, assigns a code, submits a claim to the insurer, and accepts or appeals the amount reimbursed for their services. If a patient does not have insurance, the patient can be billed directly.

FFS providers may include independent and community practices, associations, and health systems. The FFS payment model dominates health care reimbursement.

The California Telehealth Resource Center (CTRC) and all resources and activities produced or supported by the CTRC are made possible by grant number U1UTH42520-01-01 from the Office for the Advancement of Telehealth, Health Resources and Services Administration, DHHS. This information or content and conclusions are those of the CTRC and should not be construed as the official position or policy of, nor should any endorsements be inferred by HRSA, HHS, or the U.S. Government.